Carlisle Dianne Momberger, a 2013 graduate of Redlands East Valley High School, graduated from Case Western Reserve University May 21 with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry.

She was in the concert choir all four years and in the a cappella choir for two years.

During her sophomore year spring break she went with her class to study in Greece.

For two years she conducted phthalocyanine synthesis and crystallization research, and contributed a crystal structure and synthesis to the research group leader's doctoral thesis.

She is living in Westlake and working as a henna artist around Southern California, including at Market Night in Redlands.

She received a Rotary Club of Redlands scholarship when she graduated from REV.
